

Research Presentation Announcement

Jace Weaver

Institute of Native American Studies
Department of Religion
The University of Georgia

Religion and the Red Atlantic

"The Red Atlantic" is Dr. Weaver's attempt to re-center Atlantic world history on the indigenous peoples of the western hemisphere. Christianity was a major European import across the Atlantic to Natives. This talk will outline Dr. Weaver's concept and then examine the impact of three Spanish priests: Bartolome de Las Casas and the lesser-known Vasco de Quiroga and Alonso de la Vera Cruz.

September 19, 2013
3pm A126 Wells Hall

Conversation & Refreshments to follow at 4pm

MSU faculty members should RSVP with Kyle Whyte (kwhyte@msu.edu) if they plan to have large groups of their students attend this presentation

This presentation is made possible with generous support from the American Indian Studies Program, Indigenous Law & Policy Center, Department of Writing, Rhetoric & American Cultures, Department of Religious Studies, Residential College in the Arts & Humanities, African American & African Studies Program, and Native American Institute.