POINTS AND AUTHORITIES IN SUPPORT OF MOTION

Date: October 6, 2016
Time: 8:00 a.m.

Before: Hon. William Alsup

TO ALL THE PARTIES AND THEIR ATTORNEYS OF RECORD

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on October 6, 2016 at 8:00 a.m., or as soon thereafter as counsel may be heard by the above-entitled Court, in Courtroom 8, 19th Floor, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, California, Individual Defendants Michael Hunter, Anthony Steele, David Brown, Adrian John, Natalie Sedano Garcia, and Kiuya Brown will and hereby do move the Court for an order dismissing the First Amended Complaint pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure on the basis that each claim for relief, whether based on federal or state law, is barred by the Noerr-Pennington doctrine. The pendent state law claims are also barred by

1 California Code of Civil Procedure section 425.16 and Civil Code section 47. Even if Individual 2 Defendants are not immune, Plaintiff's First Amended Complaint and Exhibit simply do not 3 describe any sale of goods or services required for a trademark violation. Additionally, Individual 4 Defendants' use of the Tribe's federally recognized name to identify a dispute between the tribal 5 factions at most constitutes nominative fair use, which is shielded from liability.

6 This motion is based upon this Notice of Motion and Motion, the accompanying 7 memorandum of points and authorities, request for judicial notice, all pleadings and papers on file 8 in this action, and upon other such matters as may be presented to the Court at the time of the 9 hearing.

INTRODUCTION

2 Plaintiff's "First Amended Complaint for Damages and Injunctive Relief" ("First Amended 3 Complaint") infringes upon the individual defendants' ("Individual Defendants") constitutional 4 right to petition the United States government for redress under the First Amendment. Each claim 5 for relief, whether based on federal or state law, is barred by the Noerr-Pennington doctrine. The 6 pendent state law claims are also barred by California Code of Civil Procedure<sup>1</sup> section 425.16 and 7 Civil Code section 47. The Individual Defendants incorporate each of Ceiba Legal, LLP's
8 arguments raised in its Supporting Memorandum of Points and Authorities in support of its Motion 9 to Dismiss the First Amended Complaint.

10 On November 8, 2014, David Brown, Adrian John, Natalie Sedano Garcia, and Kiuya
11 Brown were elected by a majority of adult tribal members of the Elem Indian Colony of Pomo 12 Indians of the Sulphur Bank Rancheria (“Tribe”) to serve as its governing body, the Executive 13 Committee (“Brown Faction”). Agustin Garcia, Sarah Brown Garcia, Leora John, Stephanie 14 Brown and Nathan Brown II (“Garcia Faction”) also claim that they were elected on the same day 15 despite not being able to martial evidence that a majority of the Tribe elected them. The First 16 Amended Complaint targets the Brown Faction’s petition to be recognized by the Bureau of Indian 17 Affairs (“BIA”) and the Interior Board of Indian Appeals (“IBIA”) as members of the lawful 18 governing body for the Tribe.<sup>2</sup> The results of the election of the Brown Faction were 19 communicated to the BIA on November 12, 2014 which triggered an administrative process which 20 is ongoing.<sup>3</sup> The Pacific Regional Director of the BIA issued a final appealable agency decision

23       <sup>2</sup> “Individual Defendants” is used for convenience to refer to the Brown Faction, Michael Hunter and Anthony 24       Steele collectively, however, Michael Hunter and Anthony Steele are not tribal members and did not 25       participate in the election of the Brown Faction. The Individual Defendants do not concede that this case was 26       brought by the governing body of the Elem Indian Colony of Pomo Indians of the Sulphur Bank Rancheria nor that it was authorized by the Tribe’s membership. References to the “Plaintiff” as the “Tribe” herein is for convenience and should not be construed as acceptance that the Garcia Faction is one in same as the Tribe or supported by the Tribe.

27 <sup>3</sup> See attached Request for Judicial Notice (“RJN”), Exhibit A. January 20, 2015 letter from David Brown, 28 Chairman, to Troy Burdick, Superintendent Department of Interior Bureau of Indian Affairs. The November 8, 2014 “Report of Tribal Election” is attached as Exhibit A to this document.

1 adverse to the Individual Defendants on November 20, 2015,<sup>4</sup> which was appealed on 2 December 31, 2015 to the IBIA where the matter remains pending. Plaintiff, the Garcia Faction, is 3 an interested party in that administrative process,<sup>5</sup> and all material facts alleged in the First 4 Amended Complaint occurred during that process. As such, Individual Defendants' acts are 5 immunized from liability under federal and state law.

6 Moreover, even if Individual Defendants are not immune, Plaintiff's First Amended 7 Complaint and Exhibit simply do not describe any sale of goods or services required for a 8 trademark violation. Additionally, Individual Defendants' use of the Tribe's federally recognized 9 name to identify a dispute among two tribal factions at most constitutes nominative fair use, which 10 is shielded from liability.

11 PLAINTIFF'S CLAIMS

12 Plaintiff alleges as follows in paragraphs 10-16 of the First Amended Complaint:

13 10. In November 2014, after the Tribe's bi-annual Tribal election, 14 Defendants conspired to attempt and to continue to attempt to take control 15 of the Elem tribal government, its federal reservation lands, and its 16 finances.

17 11. In furtherance of the conspiracy, Defendant Ceiba Legal drafted and 18 sent, via United States mail, correspondence to several federal 19 departments, a federally funded Tribal Health Clinic, the California 20 Gambling Control Commission, and at least two Lake County banks. (See 21 Ex A, The Fraudulent Correspondences).

22 12. The correspondence, sent on or around March 28, 2016, alleged and 23 represented that Defendants Paul, David Brown, John, Garcia and Kiuya 24 Brown were the duly elected government of the Tribe. The 25 correspondence also requested a freeze of specific activities provided by 26 the government entities (to the Tribe), including a freeze on federal 27 Housing and Urban Development funding, and/or possession of the 28 Tribe's bank accounts, and requesting the California Gaming Control Commission freeze $1.1 million dollars annually paid to the Tribe pursuant to the California Indian Gaming Revenue Sharing Trust Fund (RSTF).

26       <sup>4</sup> RJN, Exhibit B, Docket No. IBIA 16-037, Notice of Docketing and Order Setting Briefing Schedule (March 1, 27 2016).

28       <sup>5</sup> RJN, Exhibit B, page 4, item 11.

1 (The reference to 2016 is wrong. The correspondence and the interpleader action that followed 2 occurred in 2015.)<sup>6</sup>

3       13. Defendant Ceiba Legal's correspondence directly contradicted a 4       Bureau of the Interior Department decision, issued on March 9, 2016, by 5       Central California Agency Superintendent Troy Burdick, recognizing 6       General Council, Agustine Garcia as Chairman of the Tribe, Stephanie 7       Brown (Vice-Chair), Sarah B. Garcia (Secretary/Treasurer), Nathan M.
 8       Brown III and Leora John (members at large).

9 (The reference to 2016 is, again, wrong. The BIA decision in question was issued on March 9, 10 2015.)<sup>7</sup>

11       14. While the correspondence was largely ignored by the federal and state 12       government agencies, tribal health clinic and one bank, non-party Wells 13       Fargo Bank filed an interpleader action, Wells Fargo Bank v. Augustin 14       Garcia et al., Lake County Superior Court, case number CV-414987.
 15       Plaintiff's Garcia Faction had to respond to that interpleader action, and 16       ultimately prevailed.

17 (The statement is false because the Garcia Faction's attorney requested Wells Fargo to file the 18       interpleader action, the Garcia Faction never responded to the action, and the Garcia Faction did 19       not prevail because Wells Fargo voluntarily dismissed the action on September 11, 2015.)<sup>8</sup>

20       15. Defendants' fraudulent correspondence cost the Tribal treasury 21       thousands of dollars in legal fees and expenses, of which the Tribe now 22       seeks to recoup from Defendants, along with treble damages and/or 23       punitive damages pursuant to California and federal law.

24       16. Defendants' actions had and continue to have a debilitating effect on 25       the Tribe in the form of requiring a tremendous amount of resources, time 26       and legal fees to address.

27       Pages 5-6 of Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint is the February 6, 2015 letter 28       which prompted the Wells Fargo interpleader action. It reads in relevant part:

29       An administrative freeze is proper and will reduce Wells Fargo Bank's 30       potential liability in the future. There could be legal exposure if 31       distributions of tribal assets are made in the midst of this heated dispute 32       and while there is no recognized government by the Bureau of Indian

28       <sup>8</sup> RJD, Exhibit D, Request for Dismissal dated September 11, 2015.

1 Affairs. If Wells Fargo Bank is unwilling to issue an administrative freeze 2 then it is our intention to sue Wells Fargo Bank in order to obtain a 3 judicial freeze until the dispute is resolved.

4 Paragraph 8 of Wells Fargo's "Complaint in Interpleader" reads in relevant part:

6 On February 6, 2015, counsel for the Second Council [Defendants herein] 7 sent a letter to Wells Fargo asserting, among other things, that the Second 8 Council had been elected by a majority of voters of the Elem Indian 9 Colony in a November 2013 [sic] election. The letter stated that the First 10 Council had not been lawfully elected and does not represent or have 11 authority to conduct business on behalf of the Elem Indian Colony. The 12 letter demanded that Wells Fargo place an administrative freeze on the 13 Account while the dispute was ongoing, and it threatened that "[t]here 14 could be legal exposure if distributions of tribal assets are made in the 15 midst of this heated dispute."<sup>9</sup> (Emphasis added.)

16 (The election at issue in this matter occurred in November of 2014.)

17 In the Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh causes of action Plaintiff alleges that Individual 18 Defendants infringed upon the Tribe's trademark, its name.

19 STANDARD OF REVIEW FOR A 12(B)(6) MOTION

20 A motion to dismiss is proper under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6) where the 21 pleadings fail to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. The complaint is construed in the 22 light most favorable to the non-moving party and all material allegations in the complaint are taken 23 to be true. (Sanders v. Kennedy, 794 F.2d 478, 481 (9th Cir. 1986).) However, even under the 24 liberal pleading standard of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8(a)(2), "a plaintiff's obligation to 25 provide the 'grounds' of his 'entitle[ment] to relief' requires more than labels and conclusions, and 26 a formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action will not do." (*Bell Atlantic Corp. v.
 27 Twombly*, 550 U.S. 544, 555, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 167 L.Ed. 2d 929 (2007).) While the Court must 28 treat well-pleaded facts as true, it does not accept as true "allegations that are merely conclusory, 29 unwarranted deductions of fact, or unreasonable inferences." (Daniels-Hall v. National Education 30 Association, 629 F.3d 992, 998 (9th Cir. 2010).)

31 In cases where a plaintiff seeks relief for conduct which is prima facie protected by the 32 First Amendment, the plaintiff must allege specific facts. (*Omni Resource Development Corp. v.
 33*

34 _____
 35 <sup>9</sup> RJD, Exhibit C, Complaint in Interpleader, paragraph 8.

1 Conoco, Inc. 739 F.Supp 1412, 1415 (9th Cir. 1984). See also, Franchise Realty Interstate Corp.
 2 v. San Francisco Local Joint Executive Bd. Of Culinary Workers, 542 F.2d 1076, 1083 (9th Cir.
 3 1976 cert. denied, 430 U.S. 940, 97 S.Ct. 1571, 51 L.Ed.2d 787 (1977)) (“[T]he danger that the 4 mere pendency of the action will chill the exercise of First Amendment rights requires more 5 specific allegations than would otherwise be required.”).)

6 A district court may not consider any material beyond the pleadings in ruling on a 7 Rule 12(b)(6) motion, however, documents subject to judicial notice may be considered on a 8 motion to dismiss. (Mack v. South Bay Distributors, Inc., 789 F.2d 1279, 1282 (9th Cir. 1986).)
 9 Moreover, a court may take judicial notice of “records and reports of administrative bodies.”
 10 (Interstate Natural Gas Co. v. Southern California Gas Co., 209 F.2d 380, 385 (9th Cir. 1953).)
 11 Because the Complaint does not allege specific facts, and even the general allegations are rife with 12 errors, resort to judicial notice is necessary to frame the issues here.

DISCUSSION

14 1. The First, Second, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh Causes of Action brought under state law are 15 barred by the Noerr-Pennington doctrine, Code of Civil Procedure section 425.16 and Civil Code 16 section 47.

17 A. The Noerr-Pennington Doctrine.

18 The Noerr-Pennington doctrine generally immunizes from liability acts petitioning the 19 government for redress. (Theme Promotions, Inc. v. News America Mktg FSI, 546 F.3d 991, 1007
 20 (9th Cir. 2008) (“Theme Promotions”); Sosa v. DIRECTV, Inc., 437 F.3d 923, 929 (9th Cir. 2006)
 21 (citing Eastern R.R. Presidents Conference v. Noerr Motor Freight, Inc., 365 U.S. 127, 81 S.Ct.
 22 523, 5 L.Ed.2d 464 (1961) (hereinafter, “Noerr”) and United Mine Workers v. Pennington, 381
 23 U.S. 657, 85 S.Ct. 1585, 14 L.Ed.2d. 626 (1965).) The Noerr-Pennington doctrine provides a rule 24 of statutory construction that is based on and implements the First Amendment right to petition.
 25 (Sosa v. DIRECTV, Inc., 437 F.3d 923, 931 (9th Cir. 2006).)

26 There is an exception under Noerr-Pennington where the litigation is “a mere sham to 27 cover what is actually nothing more than an attempt to interfere directly with the business 28 relationships of a competitor.” (California Motor Transport Co. v. Trucking Unlimited, 404 U.S.

1 508, 510, 92 S.Ct. 609, 30 L.Ed. 2d 642 (1972) (internal quotation omitted).) The United States
 2 Supreme Court set forth a two part definition of sham litigation in Professional Real Estate
 3 Investors, Inc. v. Columbia Pictures, Inc., 508 U.S. 49, 60-61 (1993), 113 S.Ct. 1920, 123 L.Ed.2d 4 611:

5 First, the lawsuit must be objectively baseless in the sense that no 6 reasonable litigant could realistically expect success on the merits. If an 7 objective litigant could conclude that the suit is reasonably calculated to 8 elicit a favorable outcome, the suit is immunized under Noerr, and an 9 antitrust claim premised on the sham exception must fail. Only if 10 challenged litigation is objectively meritless may a court examine the 11 litigant's subjective motivation. Under this second part of our definition of 12 sham, the court should focus on whether the baseless lawsuit conceals "an 13 attempt to interfere directly with the business relationships of a 14 competitor," Noerr, supra, at 144 (emphasis added), through the "use [of] 15 the governmental process —as opposed to the outcome of that process—as 16 an anticompetitive weapon," Omni, [City of Columbia v. Omni Outdoor 17 Advertising], 499 U.S., 365, 380 (emphasis in original). (Footnote 18 omitted.)

19 Later decisions have extended Noerr-Pennington to administrative petitions like the one 20 here. (See Theme Promotions, at 1006 ("The essence of the Noerr-Pennington doctrine is that 21 those who petition any department of the government for redress are immune from statutory 22 liability for their petitioning conduct.").) Noerr-Pennington also applies to state law claims.
 23 (Theme Promotions, at 1006.)

24 In addition to immunizing conduct in a legitimate lawsuit or administrative proceeding, the 25 Noerr-Pennington doctrine also protects conduct that is "incidental to the prosecution of the suit."
 26 (See Sosa, 437 F.3d at 936-939 (internal quotation omitted).) In Sosa the conduct at issue was the 27 sending of pre-litigation demand letters. The court found such conduct was immunized (from 28 RICO liability) under the Noerr-Pennington doctrine as "incidental to the prosecution of the suit."
 (Id. at 934-35.)

29 B. Noerr-Pennington and the First Amended Complaint.

30 The state law causes of action that Plaintiff pleads - for tortious interference with contract, 31 for fraud and deceit, trademark infringement, injury to business reputation and trademark 32 infringement - are all subject to, and barred by, the Noerr-Pennington doctrine. In Theme 33 Promotions, Inc. v. News Am. Mktg. FSI, 546 F.3d 991 (9th Cir. 2008) the Ninth Circuit joined the

1 Fifth Circuit in extending Noerr-Pennington to state law causes of action:

2 In explaining its decision to extend Noerr-Pennington to tortious
 3 interference with contracts, the Fifth Circuit stated, ‘There is simply no 4 reason that a common-law tort doctrine can any more permissibly abridge 5 or chill the constitutional right of petition than can a statutory claim such as antitrust.’ Id. at 1084. We agree, and we hold that the Noerr-
Pennington doctrine applies to Theme’s state law tortious interference with prospective economic advantage claims.

6 * * * * *

7 The Noerr-Pennington doctrine has been articulated as a principle of 8 statutory construction rather than as a privilege. See Sosa, 437 F.3d at 9 930-32. More importantly, because Noerr-Pennington protects federal constitutional rights, it applies in all contexts, even where a state law doctrine advances a similar goal.

10 Id. at 1006 (emphasis added).

11 In Theme Promotions the allegedly offending conduct arose during the course of litigation.
 12 One of the parties sent common clients of the litigants a letter informing them that they could 13 become embroiled in the litigation if they followed the advice of the other party. (Id. at 997.) The 14 court concluded that the letter was immunized against attack by Noerr-Pennington because the 15 underlying litigation between the parties was not objectively baseless. (Id. at 1007-08.) The court 16 then analyzed the letter as if it were a threat of a future lawsuit and determined that such a lawsuit 17 would not have been objectively baseless either. (Id. at 1008.)

18 In the instant case the allegedly offending conduct is a letter Defendants sent to Wells 19 Fargo during the BIA’s administrative process. The letter stated that there could be legal exposure 20 to Wells Fargo if distributions of tribal assets are made in the midst of the dispute.<sup>10</sup> This language 21 is essentially the same as the language the Ninth Circuit analyzed in Theme Promotions (Id., at 22 997) therefore Noerr-Pennington applies unless Plaintiff can meet its burden to show that the 23 underlying petitioning activity is objectively baseless. It is not.

24 The petition to have the election recognized by the BIA was reasonable because a majority 25 of the Tribe’s adult members voted for the “Brown Faction” and their election followed the 26 processes required by the Tribe’s constitution.<sup>11</sup> Moreover, the Brown Faction submitted its 27 <sup>10</sup> RJD, Exhibit C, Complaint in Interpleader, paragraph 8.

28 <sup>11</sup> RJD, Exhibit A, pp. 5-10.

1 election report on November 8, 2014 to the BIA but the BIA never sent anything back to them 2 about the election.<sup>12</sup> It was not until March 2015 that the Defendants learned that the 3 Superintendent of the BIA recognized the Garcia Faction.<sup>13</sup> And, it was not until November 20, 4 2015 that the Pacific Regional Director of the BIA issued final agency action on the recognition in 5 which he found only one infirmity in the election process which was an alleged lack of proper 6 notice.<sup>14</sup> On March 1, 2016, the IBIA accepted the matter for review as to whether the Garcia 7 Faction was properly recognized by the BIA.<sup>15</sup> Thus, the pending actions are legitimate and 8 Plaintiff cannot meet its burden to show otherwise.

9       If the letter to Wells Fargo is analyzed as a threat of a future lawsuit against Wells Fargo 10 for disbursement of tribal funds to the wrong party the conclusion would be the same, i.e., such an 11 action would not be objectively baseless. The fact that Wells Fargo filed the interpleader action to 12 determine the appropriate owner of the account demonstrates that a future action by the prevailing 13 faction would not have been objectively baseless.

14       C.     California's Anti-SLAPP Statute and California Civil Code section 47.

15       Plaintiff's state law causes of action are also subject to a special motion to strike pursuant 16 to California Code of Civil Procedure section 425.16 which immunizes from liability any act taken 17 in furtherance of the right to petition under the United States Constitution or the California 18 Constitution. This provision includes "any written or oral statement or writing made in connection 19 with an issue under consideration or review by a legislative, executive or judicial body, or any 20 other official proceeding authorized by law." (Code of Civ. Proc. § 425.16(e)(2).) Similarly, 25 "Decision by Superintendent, Central California Agency, to Agustin Garcia, Chairman, Elem Indian Colony, 26 regarding recognizing the Executive Committee members."

27       <sup>14</sup> RJD, Exhibit B, "Notice of Docketing and Order Setting Briefing Schedule," and "Administrative Record for the 28 November 20, 2015, Decision Regarding the Elem Indian Colony" Item 3 of which references a November 20, 29 2015 "Decision by Amy Dutschke, Regional Director, to affirm three decisions issued by the Superintendent, 30 Central California Agency, dated December 18, 2014, March 9, 2015 and March 12, 2015.

31       <sup>15</sup> RJD, Exhibit B, "Notice of Docketing and Order Setting Briefing Schedule."

1 California Civil Code section 47(b) recognizes an absolute privilege for communications having 2 “some relation” to a legislative, judicial or other official proceeding authorized by law. (Rubin v.
 3 Green (1993) 4 Cal.4th 1187, 1193.) Both Code of Civil Procedure section 425.16 and Civil Code 4 section 47 are construed broadly to protect the right of litigants to “the utmost freedom of access to 5 the courts without fear of being harassed subsequently by derivative tort actions.” (Id. at 1194.)

6         Communications made during litigation to non-parties are immunized under 7 section 425.16(e)(2) if they relate to the substantive issues in the litigation and are directed to
 8 persons having an interest in the litigation. (Contemporary Services Corp. v. Staff Pro Inc. (2007)
 9 152 Cal.App.4th 1043, 1055 (allegedly defamatory statements contained in e-mail to opponent’s 10 clients was protected activity under section 425.16(e)(2) and Civil Code section 47(b).)) A similar 11 result was reached in Healy v. Tuscany Hills Landscape & Recreation Corp. (2006) 137
 12 Cal.App.4th 1 where a local homeowners association provided a litigation update to members 13 which prompted a defamation cross-claim from the defendant in the underlying litigation. The 14 court found the statement protected by section 425.16(e)(2) and Civil Code section 47(b). (Id. at 15 p. 5.) In Neville v. Chudacoff (2008) 160 Cal.App.4th 1255, 1270 the court determined that 16 section 425.16 extended to pre-litigation communications.

17         D.         Code of Civil Procedure section 425.16, Civil Code section 47 and the First 18 Amended Complaint.

19         Communications made during litigation to non-parties are immunized under 20 section 425.16(e)(2) if they relate to the substantive issues in the litigation and are directed to
 21 persons having an interest in the litigation. (Contemporary Services Corp. v. Staff Pro Inc. (2007) 22 152 Cal.App.4th 1043, 1055.) Both requirements are met here. The communication related to the 23 Tribe’s bank account and, because of that, Wells Fargo had an interest in the litigation. In Neville 24 v. Chudacoff (2008) 160 Cal.App.4th 1255 the attorney for a security firm sent a letter to the 25 security firm’s clients cautioning them about doing business with a former employee who was 26 competing against the firm and warning them that they could be targeted for an accounting if they 27 did business with the former employee. (Id. at 1260.) The court held that this was protected 28 activity immune from suit under Noerr-Pennington. (Id. at pp. 1262-70.)

1       The letter Defendants sent Wells Fargo, asking that it freeze the account and warning the 2 bank that it could become embroiled in the dispute otherwise is largely the same message at issue 3 in Neville v. Chudacoff. Unlike in Chudacoff, the statement to Wells Fargo was made while the 4 administrative proceeding was still pending meaning the statement is also absolutely privileged 5 under California Civil Code section 47.

6       2. The Third Cause of Action, brought under the Racketeer Influenced and Organized Crime 7 Act, is barred by the Noerr-Pennington doctrine.

8       Plaintiff's third cause of action includes two counts under the Racketeer Influenced and 9 Organized Crime Act ("RICO") codified at 18 U.S.C. sections 1961-1968. As with the other 10 causes of action the factual predicate is the disputed November 2014 election and subsequent 11 communications regarding the election to non-parties who had dealings with the tribe. (See 12 Complaint at ¶¶ 35-56.)

13       In Sosa v. DIRECTV, Inc., 437 F.3d 923 (9th Cir. 2006) the Ninth Circuit applied the 14 Noerr-Pennington doctrine to affirm dismissal of a RICO complaint based on letters threatening 15 litigation. The letters were sent prior to the initiation of litigation and thus were not actual 16 petitions for redress, however, the court noted that the Petition Clause also protected conduct that 17 was incidental to a valid effort to influence governmental action. Said the court, "Although the 18 letters were not themselves petitions, the Petition Clause may nevertheless preclude burdening 19 them so as to preserve the breathing space required for the effective exercise of the right it 20 protects." (Id. at 933.) The notion of First Amendment breathing space first arose in the freedom 21 of speech area, specifically, New York Times Co. v. Sullivan, 376 U.S. 254, 84 S.Ct. 710, 11 22 L.Ed.2d 686 (1964) and was also recognized in Noerr, itself, where the Court extended immunity 23 not only to the railroad's direct communications with legislators but also its public relations 24 campaign, finding that the letter's aim was to influence the passage of favorable legislation.
 25 (Noerr, 365 U.S. at 140-43, 81 S.Ct. 523.) Based upon the "breathing space" concept the Sosa 26 court went on to hold that the subject communications triggered the Noerr-Pennington doctrine "so 27 long as they are sufficiently related to the petitioning activity." (Id. at 935.)

28       In the instant case Individual Defendants petitioned to have their election recognized by the 1 BIA and then communicated with other non-parties that had an interest in the proceeding. Under 2 Sosa v. DIRECTV, Inc., these communications fall within the protected First Amendment 3 “breathing space” and, under Noerr-Pennington, Plaintiff’s RICO counts must be dismissed.

4 3. The Fourth Cause of Action, for Trademark Infringement under 15 U.S.C. sections 1114
 5 and 1125(a) is barred by the Noerr-Pennington doctrine.

6 Plaintiff’s fourth cause of action alleges Defendants violated the Lanham Act, codified at 7 15 U.S.C. section 1051 et seq., by using the Tribe’s trademark and “confusingly similar variations 8 thereof in commerce to advertise, promote, market and receive unlawful financial benefits . . . .”
 9 (Complaint at ¶ 61.) Even if true, Defendants’ actions as alleged fall within the same breathing 10 space guaranteed by the First Amendment and protected by the Noerr-Pennington doctrine. The 11 only case specifically addressing Noerr-Pennington in the context of the Lanham Act is Innovative 12 Health Solutions, Inc. v. DyAnsys, Inc., No. 14-CV-05207 SI, 2015 WL 2398931 (N.D. Cal.
 13 May 19, 2015). There the court found that Noerr-Pennington applied and dismissed the Lanham 14 Act claims. (Id. at *8.)<sup>f</sup>

15 4. The Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, and Seventh Causes of Action fail because Plaintiff does not and 16 cannot allege use of any mark in connection with a sale of goods or services.

17 “The Supreme Court has made it clear that trademark infringement law prevents only 18 unauthorized uses of a trademark in connection with a commercial transaction in which the 19 trademark is being used to confuse potential consumers.” (Bosley Med. Inst., Inc. v. Kremer, 403 20 F.3d 672, 676 (9th Cir. 2005) (citations omitted).) The question is whether the Defendants’ 21 alleged use of the marks is “in connection with a sale of goods or services.” (Id. at 677; 15 U.S.C.
 22 §§ 1114(1)(a), 1125(a)(1).) Absent such use, the Lanham Act is not implicated. (Id.) This ensures 23 that a plaintiff “cannot use the Lanham Act either as a shield from [the defendant’s] criticism, or as 24 a sword to shut [the defendant] up.” (Bosley Med. Inst., Inc., 403 F.3d at 680.) This rule gives 25 force to First Amendment protections, which ensure the Lanham Act cannot be used as “an 26 instrument for chilling or silencing the speech of those who disagree with or misunderstand a mark 27 holder’s positions or views.” (Radiance Foundation, Inc. v. NAACP, 786 F.3d 316, 327-28 (4th
 28 Cir. 2015) (reversing district court order that Lanham Act prohibited criticism of NAACP’s stance

1 on abortion using the NAACP’s marks and recognizing that “Courts have uniformly understood 2 that imposing liability under the Lanham Act for [speech on political and social issues] is rife with 3 the First Amendment problems”.) The analysis of state law trademark claims is “substantially 4 congruent” to Lanham Act claims. (Playboy Enterprises, Inc. v. Netscape Commc’ns Corp., 354
 5 F.3d 1020, 1024 n.10 (9th Cir. 2004) (holding district court properly declined to analyze state law 6 trademark claims separately from federal trademark claims).)

7 Plaintiff cannot state a trademark claim because it nowhere alleges that use of the Tribe’s 8 name to identify the ongoing leadership dispute was “in connection with a sale of goods or 9 services.” (Bosley Med. Inst., Inc., 403 F.3d at 677; 15 U.S.C. §§ 1114(1)(a), 1125(a)(1).) In 10 Bosley, the Ninth Circuit rejected plaintiff Bosley Medical’s attempt to use the Lanham Act to 11 silence commentary about its services on a website by a dissatisfied customer, where the customer 12 used Bosley Medical’s trademark to criticize the company but not to offer goods and services.
 13 (Bosley Med. Inst., Inc., 403 F.3d at 676-77, 679-80.) Plaintiff’s complaint identifies no good or 14 service that Defendants were offering to the government entities or banks to whom they directed 15 the correspondence about the leadership dispute. (First Amended Complaint, ¶¶ 57-74, Ex. A.) At 16 best, the correspondence upon which Plaintiff bases its claims constitutes “speech of those who 17 disagree with . . . [plaintiff]’s positions or views.” (Radiance Foundation, Inc. v. NAACP, 786 18 F.3d 316, 327-28 (4th Cir. 2015).) Plaintiff cannot silence those views under the guise of 19 trademark law. (Id.; Bosley Med. Inst., Inc., 403 F.3d at 677.)

20 5. The Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, and Seventh Causes of Action fail because Defendants at most engaged in nominative fair use of the Tribe’s name.

22 Even if Plaintiff could allege commercial use under trademark law, Plaintiff’s trademark 23 claims also fail because Defendants’ use of the Tribe’s name to identify an ongoing tribal 24 leadership dispute at most constituted nominative fair use. (Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc. v.
 25 Tabari, 610 F.3d 1171, 1175-76 (9th Cir. 2010).)

26 The doctrine of nominative fair use arises from the premise that “[m]uch useful social and 27 commercial discourse would be all but impossible if speakers were under threat of an infringement 28 lawsuit every time they made reference to a person, company or product by using its trademark.”

1 (New Kids on the Block v. News Am. Pub., Inc., 971 F.2d 302, 306–07 (9th Cir. 1992).) As the 2 Ninth Circuit has recognized, “it is often virtually impossible to refer to a particular product for 3 purposes of comparison, criticism, point of reference or any other such purpose without using the 4 mark.” (Id. at 306.)

5 The doctrine bars a trademark claim ““where the use of the trademark does not attempt to 6 capitalize on consumer confusion or to appropriate the cachet of one product for a different one.”” 7 (New Kids on the Block, 971 F.2d at 308.) The use is protected even if “carried on for profit and in 8 competition with the trademark holder’s business.” (Id. at 309.)

9 The test for whether nominative fair use bars a trademark claim asks “whether (1) the 10 product was ‘readily identifiable’ without use of the mark; (2) defendant used more of the mark 11 than necessary; or (3) defendant falsely suggested he was sponsored or endorsed by the trademark 12 holder.” (Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc. v. Tabari, 610 F.3d 1171, 1175–76 (9th Cir. 2010); 13 Stevo Design, Inc. v. SBR Mktg. Ltd., 919 F. Supp. 2d 1112, 1123 (D. Nev. 2013) (same test 14 applies to both goods and services).) Federal fair use standards apply to California law trademark 15 claims. (Bell v. Harley Davidson Motor Co., 539 F. Supp. 2d 1249, 1261 (S.D. Cal. 2008) (citing 16 Playboy Enterprises, Inc. v. Netscape Commc’ns Corp., 354 F.3d 1020, 1024 n.10 (9th Cir.
 17 2004)).) Specifically, Plaintiff’s claims are barred because its First Amended Complaint and 18 Exhibit confirm that each part of the test demonstrates nominative fair use as a matter of law.

19 A. Communication About The Leadership Dispute Required Identification Of The 20 Tribe.

21 The Amended Complaint alleges Individual Defendants sent the correspondence attached 22 as Exhibit A to assert their position that they “were the duly elected government of the Tribe,” with 23 the authority to “control of the Elem tribal government, its federal reservation lands, and its 24 finances.” (First Amended Complaint, ¶¶ 10, 12, Ex. A.) In fact, each letter identified those 25 individuals Individual Defendants believed comprised the “Executive Committee elected by a 26 majority of the qualified voters of the Elem Indian Colony of Pomo Indians.” (Id., Ex. A at 2-5.) 27 Each letter also disclosed the existence of a dispute with another faction, “led by Augustine 28 Garcia,” which was also acting as a “purported Executive Committee.” (Id.) Agustin Garcia

1 claims to be the Chairman of the tribal faction that filed this lawsuit. (Id., ¶ 14 (referencing 2 “Plaintiff’s Garcia Faction”); see id., ¶ 13.) The letters referencing tribal funds specifically 3 requested that the recipients preserve the status quo by immediately “freez[ing]” funds pending
 4 resolution of the dispute. (Id., Ex. A at 2, 4-5.)

5 The Tribe is recognized by the United States, and listed in the Federal Register, as the 6 “Elem Indian Colony of Pomo Indians of the Sulphur Bank Rancheria, California.” (81 Fed. Reg.
 7 26,826, 26,828 (May 4, 2016).) Use of an identifiable portion of the name by which the Tribe is 8 federally recognized was necessary to communicate Individual Defendants’ position that they are 9 “the duly elected government of” that particular tribe. (First Amended Complaint, ¶ 10; see 10 Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc. v. Tabari, 610 F.3d 1171, 1180 (2010) (holding brokers of Lexus-11 brand vehicles “need to let consumers know that they are brokers of Lexus cars, and that’s nearly 12 impossible to do without mentioning Lexus”); Western Wind Energy Corp. v. Savitr Capital, No. C 13 12-4806 PJH, 2013 WL 3286190, *1, *6 (June 27, 2013) (finding nominative fair use based on 14 necessity to use corporate trademark in urging shareholders to vote against corporation’s current 15 management and to elect directors nominated by defendant).) Any other rule would grant the 16 Plaintiff faction a monopoly on presenting its legal position to government agencies and banks 17 with control over the fate of the Tribe and its finances.

18       B.     Defendants’ Communications Used the Tribal Name Only as Necessary.

19 Defendants’ correspondence used no more of the Tribe’s federally recognized name than 20 necessary to express their position on the pending leadership dispute. (Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., 21 Inc. v. Tabari, 610 F.3d at 1175-76.) Each of Defendants’ communications uses portions of the 22 Tribe’s federally recognized name to identify for the reader the existence of the leadership dispute, 23 as well as Plaintiff’s and Defendants’ respective positions in that dispute. (Amended Complaint, 24 Ex. A at 2-5.) The correspondence references the Tribe’s name without stylization in the same 25 font as other text, and no logo of the Tribe appears in any of the correspondence, nor did the First 26 Amended Complaint allege the communications mirror the Tribe’s known letterhead or any past 27 use of the Tribe’s name, whether in connections with goods or services or not. (Id.; see Toyota 28 Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc., 610 F.3d at 1181-82 (reversing injunction where defendants referenced

1 trademark without stylized mark and logo); Volkswagenwerk Aktiengesellschaft v. Church, 411
 2 F.2d 350, 352 (9th Cir. 1969) (no Lanham Act violation where independent Volkswagen repair
 3 provider “did not use Volkswagen’s distinctive lettering style or color scheme, nor did he display 4 the encircled ‘VW’ emblem”.) Thus, Defendants used a portion of the Tribe’s name as necessary 5 to identify the dispute without implying Plaintiff’s sponsorship of Defendants’ message.

6       C.     Defendants’ Identified the Dispute and Disclaimed Any Connection to Plaintiff.

7           Defendants’ correspondence identified the dispute with Plaintiff’s faction, requesting 8 preservation of the status quo pending its resolution, and in no way suggested Plaintiff sponsored 9 or endorsed Defendants’ message. (Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc., 610 F.3d at 1175-76; 10 Playboy Enterprises, Inc. v. Welles, 279 F.3d 796, 803 (9th Cir. 2002) (recognizing that 11 defendant’s reference to “ongoing legal battles with” plaintiff supported nominative fair use 12 defense).) In fact, in each letter Defendants disclaimed any connection to “another purported 13 Executive Committee” “being led by Augustine Garcia.” (Amended Complaint, Ex. A at 2-5 14 (emphasis added).) “While not required, such a disclaimer is relevant to the nominative fair use 15 analysis.” (Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc., 610 F.3d at 1182 (citing Playboy Enterprises, Inc. v.
 16 Welles, 279 F.3d 796, 803 (9th Cir. 2002)).)

17           Far from suggesting sponsorship, Defendants’ correspondence expresses criticism of the 18 Plaintiff faction, arguing it “has no right to conduct business or represent the tribe.” (First 19 Amended Complaint, Ex. A at 2-5.) Such criticism showed Plaintiff did not sponsor or endorse 20 Defendants’ communication. (New Kids on the Block, 971 F.2d at 308-09 (holding defendants’ 21 suggestion that “the New Kids might be ‘a turn off’” demonstrated lack of “endorsement or joint 22 sponsorship on the part of the New Kids”); Architectural Mailboxes, LLC v. Epoch Design, LLC, 23 No. 10CV974 DMS CAB, 2011 WL 1630809, at *3 (S.D. Cal. Apr. 28, 2011) (granting motion to 24 dismiss based on nominative fair use where defendant’s negative statements and criticism dispelled 25 any “affiliation, connection or sponsorship” and “dr[ew] a clear distinction between its products 26 and those of Plaintiff”); see also Stevo Design, Inc. v. SBR Mktg. Ltd., 919 F. Supp. 2d 1112, 1124 27 (D. Nev. 2013) (plaintiff failed to state a trademark claim based on nominative fair use defense 28 where “the criticism of Stevo’s analysts on the message board greatly reduces the likelihood that a

1 visitor to SBR's message board would infer Plaintiffs' 'sponsorship or endorsement'").)

2 In sum, when a dispute arose between Plaintiff and Defendants about which faction 3 rightfully was elected to govern the Tribe, Defendants used the Tribe's name only as necessary to 4 reach out to government agencies and banks on whom the Tribe depends, inform them of the 5 dispute and of Plaintiff and Defendants' respective positions, and ask them to preserve the status 6 quo pending the dispute's resolution. The nominative fair use doctrine thus also requires dismissal
 7 of Plaintiff's trademark claims.<sup>16</sup>

8 CONCLUSION

9 For the foregoing reasons the Complaint should be dismissed with prejudice.
 10 Respectfully submitted.

 26 Even if Defendants used the Tribe's name to describe a good or service of Defendants' without reference to 27 Plaintiff, such use would constitute classic, as opposed to nominative, fair use. (15 United States Code 28 § 1115(b); Cairns v. Franklin Mint Co., 292 F.3d 1139, 1150-51 (9th Cir. 2002).) This is because Defendants used the Tribe's name, not as a trademark, but rather fairly and in good faith to identify the federally recognized tribe of which they are a faction and the entity for whose benefit the disputed funds are held. (81 Fed. Reg.
 26,826, 26,828 (May 4, 2016); see Cairns, 292 F.3d 1139, 1150-51.)
