

CONTINUING IMPACTS OF U.S. INDIAN POLICY

Thursday, August 16, 2018 | 5 p.m. – 8:30 p.m.

Join us at Historic Fort Wayne for a free program that explores relationships between Native American tribal governments and the United States. Panelists will discuss the complexities of Indian law and policy, from original treaties to contemporary sovereignty. Representatives from Michigan's federally recognized tribal nations will explore the legal issues surrounding the care of nature resources and American Indian health care.
