

EDWEYING NAAABING SYMPOSIUM

1819 TREATY OF SAGINAW COMMEMORATION

Honoring Over 200 Years of Ongoing Indigenous Presence

SEPTEMBER 20-21, 2019

Michigan State University occupies the ancestral, traditional, and contemporary Lands of the Anishinaabeg - the Three Fires Confederacy of Ojibwe, Odawa, and Potawatomi peoples. The University resides on Land ceded in the 1819 Treaty of Saginaw. As one of the first Land-Grant colleges, Michigan State University is a beneficiary of Land allotted through the passing of the Morrill Act in 1862.

Marking the 200th commemoration of the Treaty of Saginaw, American Indian and Indigenous Studies, the Indigenous Law and Policy Center, and the Native American Institute, along with various co-sponsors, invite proposals for Edweying Naabing // Looking at the Past and Present, a symposium that addresses the history of this Treaty and its ongoing effects for Indigenous-settler relationships at Land-Grant institutions, such as MSU. This conference focuses on Indigenous histories, presence, and futures on Anishinaabewaki and across Turtle Island.
