

TRIBAL LAW JOURNAL

Call for Submissions: Volume 20

The Tribal Law Journal, hosted through the University of New Mexico School of Law, is now accepting submissions for Volume 20. Submissions are being accepted until Friday, October 11th.

The Tribal Law Journal was established in fall 1998 for the purpose of promoting Indigenous self-determination by facilitating discussion of the internal law of the world's Indigenous nations. The internal law of Indigenous nations encompasses traditional law, western law adopted by Indigenous nations, and a blend of western and Indigenous law. Underscoring this purpose is the recognition that traditional law is a source of law.

Article submissions are accepted through BePress or by emailing allairya@law.unm.edu and oglesbjo@law.unm.edu. The Tribal Law Journal accepts both written and oral submissions, including work written by law students, practitioners, tribal members, and faculty members.

For more information or to submit an article, please contact Co-Editors in Chief Yarrow Allaire and Jordan Oglesby at the above-mentioned emails.
