

Hobbs, Straus, Dean & Walker, LLP Job Announcement

Legislative Analyst: Hobbs, Straus, Dean & Walker, LLP is seeking a full-time Legislative Analyst with at least 2-3 years of relevant experience for its Washington, DC office. Hobbs Straus is a national law firm dedicated to promoting and defending the interests of Indian tribal governments and organizations.

Qualified candidates must have an understanding of lobbying, including Executive Branch agencies and congressional committees and federal legislative procedures with a knowledge of the federal budget and appropriations process, as well as strong research and writing skills. Responsibilities for the role include research for and drafting white papers, reports, memos, and other materials as requested; monitoring Congressional committee activities and hearings; and identifying, tracking, and analyzing federal legislation and regulations of interest to the firm's tribal clients. Candidates must be able to stay organized and multi-task in a fast-paced environment. Strong interpersonal and communication skills plus the ability to work independently while successfully prioritizing diverse tasks are also required. Capitol Hill or other legislative advocacy experience strongly preferred. Salary based on experience.

To apply: Interested candidates should submit a cover letter and resume to Ms. Robin Branthover at rbranthover@hobbsstraus.com.
