

Attorney

Barnhouse Keegan Solimon & West LLP, a Chambers and Partners ranked law firm specializing in the representation of American Indian Tribes and tribal businesses, is seeking an associate attorney. An active New Mexico license to practice law is required. Prior federal Indian law or tribal representation experience preferred, but not required. The Firm is committed to the advancement of American Indian and offers a collaborative working environment with opportunities for mentorship and professional growth. To apply, submit a cover letter, resume, three references and a writing sample to Barnhouse Keegan Solimon & West LLP at Ivera@indiancountrylaw.com.